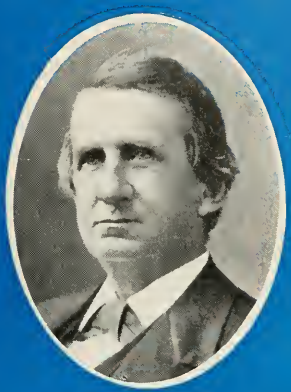
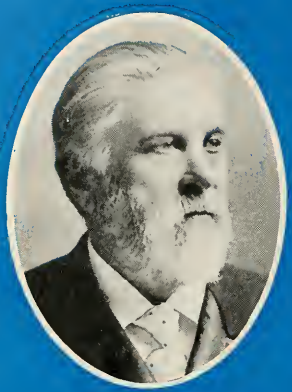
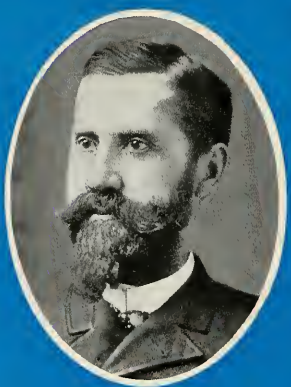
we honor these men...







For three-quarters of a century Longwood College has played a leading role in the growth and development of higher education.

Through the devotion of the many women of character and ability who have passed through her doors, through the contributions of a faculty of high calibre, and through the motivation of a tradition of friendliness, cooperation, and loyalty, this institution has expanded into the twentieth century and become an integral part of Virginia's education system.

Her history has been fascinating. . . . . .

THOMAS A. McCORKLE

To a "First"

For his diligent service and devotion to the furtherance of education through his thirty-seven years as a member of the faculty . . .

For his guidance and cooperation rendered in the three decades he served as advisor to THE VIRGINIAN . . .

For the privilege of having him as a friend . . .

We express the deepest feeling of admiration, respect, and appreciation in dedicating THE VIRGINIAN of 1959 to MR. THOMAS A. McCORKLE.

Administration

1839

In this year was incorporated by the Legislature of Virginia the institution known as the Farmville Female Seminary Association. Its 116 year history makes the college the fifth oldest educational institution for women in continuous operation in the United States.

Classes

1860

On May 24, 1860 the necessary arrangements were made for a charter to be amended by the legislature, and the name of the school was changed to the Farmville Female College. This college, under both private and church management, enjoyed a long period of successful work.

The Colonnade

Activities

1884

In May, 1884 the legislature established a State Female Normal School. Then in April of the same year the State of Virginia acquired the property of the College, and the Normal School opened with 110 students. This was the first state institution of higher learning for women in Virginia.

1924

With the passage of the years, the Normal School expanded its curricula and ran through a succession of names. Having become the State Normal School for Women in 1914, it became the State Teachers College at Farmville in 1924, under the Board of Virginia Teachers Colleges, and was destined to undergo further changes in the years to come.

The purpose of Chi is not inscribed upon paper, but can be found only in the hearts and minds of those who seek it. Chi is more than an organization—it is a spirit as old and as enduring as the school itself.

Mr. A. Ray Merchent
Advisor

The Cotillion Club has been organized to promote an interest in the social side of college life. Its members are invited by bid to join.

Besides the annual spring dance, featuring Buddy Morrow and his orchestra, Cotillion Club this year sponsored Longwood's first "Freshmen Introduction Dance." The Club also sponsored a high school week-end during which prospective students were entertained with a campus tour, a picnic supper, and a concert.

Features 1949

In 1949 the college changed its name once more, this time to Longwood College, obtaining the new name from Longwood Estate. Still primarily a college for teacher training, Longwood is continuously expanding its area of academic activities to include the field of liberal arts education.

Acknowledgements

We would like to express our gratitude to the following people who made the publication of the 1959 VIRGINIAN possible:

Miss Virginia Bedford, general advisor, and Mr. J. H. Wamsley, business advisor of the VIRGINIAN, who ably and willingly assisted in all phases of work.

Mr. Foster B. Gresham for his proofreading and excellent suggestions as literary advisor.

Mr. A. Ray Merchent for his helpful advice.

The staff who worked untiringly—reading, indexing, pasting, typing, and working with the photographer.

Amy McFall for the main division drawings.

The student body, faculty, and administration for their interest and support.

Gentry Studio as our official photographer. Hampton C. Owen, Hamblin Studios, Gene Edmunds Studio, and The Camera Artist for the special photography.

Mr. M. L. Glover and Roanoke Engraving Company for their help pertaining to the layout, art work, and engravings.

Mr. W. L. Burton and C. W. Warthen Company for printing our yearbook.

To Carolyn Oliver, editor of the 1960 VIRGINIAN, and Nancy Donaldson, business manager, we wish much success in the year ahead.

BARBARA LEE BISHOP, Editor-in-Chief
DOROTHY JUNE BOSWELL, Business Manager

To the years ahead . . . . .
